

Angel

Angel is a lovely cheeky girl. In true greyhound fashion she is a lanky awkward goof that will win your heart over in minutes. She loves lounging on the sofa or in any spot with a lot of blankets. Beware, once she chooses her spot you are not getting it back. One of her favourite things to do is to lay on the sofa and demand to be painted like one of the French girls and rub her tummy while you're at it. Because of her coat she looks good in any colour and loves her jammies and jackets.

She likes to follow humans around and even outside is clingy and will stick to you while you're walking even if on a longer leash. If you have a car, it will be no problem getting her in and out, she is a professional and isn't scared riding in a car but is a little bit of a passenger princess.

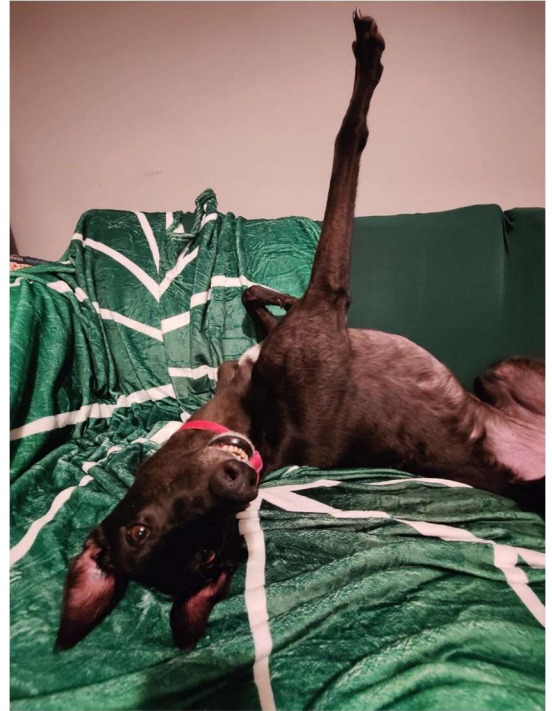

She would be well suited for a home in a quieter area and having her own space outside where she won't be distracted. She walks well as long as it's not on a main road or a park full of birds and squirrels.

She would be happy in a flat that is not on a high street with a lot of loud noises. Unlike most greyhounds she is an absolute master on stairs both going up and down and she's not scared of lifts. Especially if there is a mirror inside - she knows she's beautiful and she loves to admire her reflection.

Angel has a very good digestive tract for a greyhound and has learnt very well how to go outside for pees and poos. She prefers fishy treats over other food but isn't particularly picky unless you try to give her fruit and veg, she is very aware that she's not a rabbit. If you're used to greyhounds that are really food driven you will be surprised how little she cares, she doesn't scrounge, try to steal food from humans or counter surf.

She is a beautiful girl, and her eyes exude a gentle warmth and an endearing loyalty. She is sweet-natured, intelligent, and affectionate, always ready to nuzzle up to you, wag her tail and snuggle in for a loving cuddle.

Her gentle nature and unending devotion to her human make Angel a loyal companion, even in the face of adversity. Despite her fears, she is always eager to please, and she wins hearts with her endearing quirks and adorable tendencies. She may be scared of the world outside of her home sometimes, but her kind heart and loving personality makes her a forever loyal and cherished friend to those who earn her trust - which takes about a day and some chicken pieces.
